THE LAST TRIBUNAL

Evidence All in Concerning the Importation of Glass Workers.

THE U. S. ATTORNEY THE ONE

Who Will be Called Upon to Talk to President Campbell About It.

PRESIDENT WEIHE IS RE-ELECTED

A member of the Executive Committee of National Trades Council told a DISPATCH reporter last night that there was now no Secretary.

| Member of the Executive Committee of An early reply to this challenge will greatly oblige. Yours truly.
| A. H. LESLIE. | Jos. D. WEEKS, Chairman. tribunal for President James Campbell, of the window glass workers, except the decision of the United States District Attorney, and that the evidence collected in the investigation of his connection with the importation of the 26 English glass blowers now at work in Jeannette would undoubtedly be placed in the hands of the United States Attorney at the meeting of the assembly next Saturday night. He said further that the Window Glass Workers Union finally recalled their offer of an investigation, but that the investigation had gone on just the same or at least the evidence had been collected. Continuing, he said:

Have Enough Evidence. "We now have enough evidence collected, we think, to prove that these 26 English glass blowers were imported under contract; that the assembly in England were informed that giass workers were needed, and an arrangement entered into by which the English asment entered that by which the English as-sembly paid the fares over and expenses of the glass blowers to this country, and furthermore, that the money was refunded to them after the arrival of the blowers here. That is the evidence. Of course we cannot tell what the attorney will do with it when it is placed in his hands. But it is clear enough to us."

The informant would not disclose how the other side of the water, through correspondence with parties cognizant of the action of the as sembly in England.

Didn't Discuss the Evidence.

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Trades Council was called for last night principally to work over the evidence before it was presented to the assembly next Saturday night, but the time wore away until past 9 o'clock and a quorum did not show up, and the members who had gathered adjourned, agree-ing to submit their evidence without a meeting of the Executive Committee.

ing to submit their evidence without a meeting of the Executive Committee.

Another important question which was to have come before the committee, was the consideration of the petition of the Allecheny County Musical Union, who ask for representation in the Council. It consists of about 39 members and includes some of those who were expelled from the Musical Mutual Protective Association. The petition argues that by giving both organizations equal representation, the financial status of each member will be elevated, their services more appreciated and the demand for their labors greater. The petition was signed by J. F. Koenigh, President and A. H. Geriack, Secretary, President Ruhe, of the Musical Mutual Protective Association, who was present, was Protective Association, who was present, was loaded with evidence against members and wanted to try to prevent the hand of fellow-ship being extended, but from the conservative ship being extended, but from the conservative talk or others of the committee present it is safe to say that their petition will at least be justly considered.

WEIHE RE-ELECTED.

He is Again Made the Head of the Amalgamated Association.

Little of importance was accomplished at the Amalgamated Association Convention yester-day. President Weihe was re-elected the official head of the organization, at a salary of $2,000 a year, an increase of $500 over last year. At the morning session a communication was received from the employes of the Homestead Steel Works protesting against the scale presented by the firm, and stating that they would not accept it. The communication was referred to the Committee on the Steel Workers' Scale. Action will be taken in regard to the Homestead workers' claims by the convention in two for three days.

A committee from the convention called on Chairman Abbott Tuesday night relative to the proposed scale and the situation was discussed, but no compromise reached. The committee took with them a copy of the scale for reference. Chairman Abbott said to a Draph Theorem and the structure of the scale for reference. Chairman Abbott said to a Draph Theorem and Thomas attended to stay by their scale as set forth in their circular in May. Continuing, he said:

"We appare make bluffs and will not record."

pent delegate to the convention said

A prominent delegate to the convention said later: "If we hadn't heard about bluffs before we might be scared, but such talk in nothing new, and we will see about their stand."

It is pretty positively stated by the Amalgamated men that they will stand by their scale and suffer the penalty, that of being locked out by the firm and having their places filled by non-union workers.

The special committee on the guide mill scale reported yesterday. It was recommended that there be inserted in the 10-inch mill scale that 2½ and upward to No. 15 be 32.90 per ton; lighter than No. 15, 33.35 per ton. The same was inserted at the heap of the hoop and cetton tie scale. In the rates under the guide mill scale heretofore No. 5 read: "Fifty has been changed to 30. The base of the plate mill rolling has been changed from 80 to 72 cents per ton.

The afternoon was given up wholly to committee meetings. A delegate stated last night that from the way things were working the convention promised to be the longest one yet held.

Will Enlarge the Docks. The stockholders of the Pittsburg, Fairport and Northwestern Dock Company have elected Francis L. Robbins, H. W. Oliver, Charles D. Fraser, John E. McDonald, A. E. Anderson, directors. The directors elected Francis D. Robbins, President: Charles B. Fraser, Secretary; George W. Schluederberg, Treasurer. The company proposes to improve the Fairport, O., docks, until their capacity will be sufficient for all requirements. Fairport is the main lake terminus of the Pittsburg and Western Pauluser.

Glass Shipments Still Heavy. Mr. James A. Henderson states that river shipment of iron has declined, but that a considerable quantity of glass is still being ship ped. Gray's Iron line shipped a consignment of steel rails a few days since, but the boating stage has kept up so long that the bulk of ship ment is over for the present.

The First Let-Out. The Excelsior Glass House let out its fires last Saturday until the middle of August.

Firing a Cannon to Raise Bodies. A cannon was fired at the foot of South Third street all yesterday afternoon and even ing by Messrs. Frank Baker and Frank Rial, to try and raise the bodies of Mrs. Crowler and the baby of Mr. and Mrs. Judge, who were drowned there in the Monongahela river last Sunday. Up to 10 o'clock last night the bodies

PROHIBITION FAILED. WHY BEVERLY'S COUNCILMEN DE-

New Jersey Town That Has Beer Dead to the Waist to be Rejuvenated. Prohibition has been a failure in the little Prohibition has been a failure in the little town of Beverly, N. J., as far as the general advancement of the place is concerned, and after four years experience with no liquor sold in the town the residents have gone back to the old way again, and at the last meeting of their Council granted two retail and one wholesale liquor licenses.

An old resident of the place said yesterday. "Twenty-five years ago Beverly was a growing little city, with good prospects ahead of becoming a place of importance. Since that time the temperance movement Since that time the temperance movement sprang up, and the very people who have been foremost in this movement have retarded the growth of the town and driven away its industries. During the past four years, when prohibition has been in force, the decadence has been very marked. Trade has been driven away and building stopped. Previous to that time there were frequently as many as five or ten houses under way at a time, a thing almost unknown since."

HAS DRIVEN THE FARMERS AWAY. City Clerk William Shropshire, whose official position renders him especially familiar with the condition of the town under prohibition, says that the effect of closing up the hotels has been decidedly against the interests of the place. "Eight years ago," he said, in instancing this, "there were six big grocery stores here, all of them doing a big business. The farmers would doing a big business. The farmers would come here from the country around, leave their orders at the stores, and drop in at the hotels to gossip and drink. They didn't get drunk. The town used to be so full of them that you couldn't find an empty shed or hitching post, all being occupied by teams. Since prohibition has been in force all these farmers have been driven to Burlington or some other near town where force all these farmers have been driven to Burlington or some other near town where they could find proper accommodations. The result was that three of the grocery stores failed, and of the three that are left one is hardly doing any business at all.

"Another effect has been the driving away of numbers of people who formerly came here during the summer. The Steamboat House used to have from 150 to 200 boarders every summer; but when the license was every summer; but when the license was taken away the house remained closed for three years, and did a very meager business the remainder of the time.' The Steamboat House is one of the place just granted a license, and has already 280 boarders engaged for the present summer. Mr. Shropshire also stated that traveling men who have chanced to visit the town while prohibition was in force have said that they could not give a good account of the town outside, and could not recommend awyers seen none had knowledge of such proceedings. The general opinion was that an official and careful investigation bringing out all the facts about the dam would be necessary before an attorney would feel safe in giving advice on such a subject.

One attorney said it might prove a mistake to assume that the only liability which existed was that which might be set up as against the corporation. The charter of the South Fork is Club, he claimed, did not give permission to erect or maintain a dam, or obstruct running waters: and if the members of the association acted beyond specifically granted or necessarily implied powers, the question of individual responsibility might arise.

The general expression was that it was extremely unlikely that any litigation would take place or be much thought or at least before an official inquiry was had.

A THEORY AND THE PROPERTY AND ENOUGH OF IT.

The population of Beverly is about 2,300, and at the election last fall G. D. Logan, prohibition candidate for Assemblyman and a resident of the town, only polled 35 votes in the town limits. Mayor Roberts and most of the city officials are pronounced temperance men, but are not believers in prohibition. The present City Council, of nine members, comprises but three who are in favor of no-license, they being Dr. A. W.

At the meeting of the Council last week licenses were granted to Edward Russ, proprietor of the Russ House, at Five Points, and Francis H. Bradley, of the Steamboat House, the latter being also granted a whole-sale license. The application of Mrs. Jeans for a saloon and restaurant at Warren and Laurel streets was refused, and the applica-tion of Mrs. Kirschoff for her old hotel, the Washington House, was laid over.
